

Faculty Smartphone Survey

273

Notifications are received by students on their phones daily

100

Percent of faculty believe students are distracted by smartphones daily

6 in 10 faculty believe smartphones have detrimental mental health effects on students

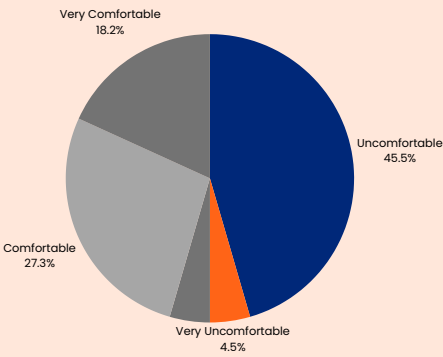

Cell phones may be confiscated and brought to the appropriate Dean or Upper School office if the device has been used in an inappropriate way in an instructional space.

-Latin Student Handbook

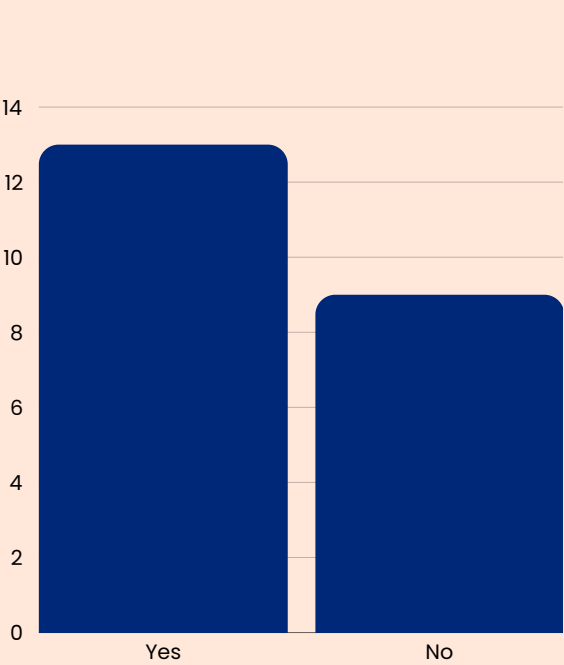

54

percent of faculty are not familiar with the student policy

50% of faculty are uncomfortable confiscating a cellphone

Would faculty consider a smartphone ban?

While I would support such a ban for certain reasons, I would think it would only be fair to have the same sort of ban for faculty to set a good example.

”

No. I think this would be an over reaction to an increasingly crucial part of students' lives.

”

No, I believe everyone is entitled to have a phone with them in case of an emergency or to stay in touch with the world.

”