That sounds good. I am doing the Captain's Council, so maybe that's something they can tackle! Let me do some brainstorming and get back to you. Maybe we can start this after Labor Day?

I'm not sure. Perhaps there could be student involvement? If a team/sport is the 'Game of the Week,' perhaps the athletes can draft an email/slide hyping it up, which could be sent around the school?

Thanks

I love it! Any way to get faculty/staff involved. We'll be trying to do a faculty/staff appreciation night for all of our sports, but that's just a game in the works... we don't have any dates yet. What's the best way to get this info rolling?

Hi Katie,

Welcome to Latin!

I work in the upper school as a computer science teacher. Some faculty are interested in increasing faculty/staff turnout at athletic games.

An idea for this is a 'Game of the Week' that can be advertised to the faculty. Then, the faculty could more easily coordinate which game to attend.

I just wanted to float it by you. What do you think?

Thanks
